American Society for Legal History 2019 Annual Meeting

---

Time : November 21-24, 2019

Location : Boston Park Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts

Website: <https://aslh.net/conference/2019-annual-meeting/>

Brief Introduction

Greetings Legal Historians! Welcome to Boston!

Famously nicknamed “the hub of the solar system” by Oliver Wendell Holmes, Boston has served over the centuries as a center of legal events and controversies that have shaped American legal history. The 1741 Writs of Assistance case and 2003’s Goodridge v. Department of Public Health were both decided about a mile from our meeting site in the Boston Park Plaza Hotel.

The Boston area’s many law schools and history departments are home to some of the longest running legal history workshops and seminars in the country. We hope you’ll find time while you’re here to visit some of the area’s remarkable libraries, archival collections, and museums. The Boston Public Library—worth a visit for the building alone—is just a short walk from the hotel.

Please stay tuned for details about our two great receptions. Harvard Law School will host Friday’s plenary and reception at its campus at 1585 Massachusetts Avenue in Cambridge. Boston University Law School will host Saturday evening’s reception at its campus at 765 Commonwealth Avenue. Many thanks to these outstanding institutions for being such generous hosts!

Workshops

STUDENT RESEARCH COLLOQUIUM

On Wednesday, November 20 and Thursday, November 21, immediately before the main conference begins, the American Society for Legal History is hosting our annual Student Research Colloquium. At this event, three faculty members will discuss graduate students’ early-stage research projects with them.

Applications to participate in this colloquium are due Monday, July 15. Full information about the application process can be found here: <https://aslh.net/call-for-applications-student-research-colloquium/>
